Maddie Krupnick, a sophomore at Queen’s College majoring in Middle Eastern Studies, while minoring in Korean, comes to us from Summit, New Jersey, where she spent a lot of her time in the shul and bandroom. She grew up involved in her synagogue, Congregation Ohr Shalom, where her mother is the Cantor. Maddie worked as a teen staffer/teacher’s assistant in the religious school and also as a camp counselor in the congregation’s summer camp.

Maddie is involved in Hillel’s Egalitarian Initiative and has participated in the Jewish Learning Fellowship. Her favorite Jewish holiday is Tu B’Shvat because she loves to try new fruit and is interested in the reforestation of Israel.

Maddie is very excited to be joining ICCJ this year.
